ARTIST STATEMENT

My artistic practice explores the intricate relationship between people, everyday life, and the spaces they inhabit. Through painting, I examine ordinary moments, daily routines, and human interactions as micro-reflections of broader social realities. I am drawn to the quiet narratives embedded within urban environments: the subtle gestures, shared memories, and unspoken struggles that often go unnoticed, yet reveal the profound complexity of the human experience.

My work focuses on the vulnerability, resilience, and beauty found in daily life, with a particular emphasis on communities shaped by labor, kinship, and communal spaces. I investigate how individuals construct meaning and identity through their surroundings, transforming mundane settings into rich landscapes of emotion and collective memory.

Informed by my background in interior design, I approach the canvas not just as a composition, but as a container of human experience, viewing space as something deeply narrative rather than merely structural. Ultimately, my practice seeks to create visual testimonies that bridge personal histories with universal emotions, highlighting the invisible threads that connect us across different contexts.

BIOGRAPHY

Ninfa Espinoza

Ninfa Espinoza (b. 1992) is a Honduran visual artist based in San Pedro Sula. In 2026 she completed her studies in Interior Design at CEUTEC. In 2023 she received an Honorable Mention as Revelation Artist at the XXXIII National Art Salon of the Centro Cultural Sampedrano.

In 2026 she presented Intercambios Cotidianos, her first solo exhibition, at the Centro Cultural Sampedrano. Her exhibition history includes participation in group shows at the national and international level, among them TE ODIO (Centro Cultural de España, Costa Rica 2025 and Tegucigalpa 2026) and El Arte y la Paz (Torre Banpaís, 2025). She has taken part for three consecutive years in the National Art Salon of the Centro Cultural Sampedrano.

Since 2023 she has been a member of the Colectivo de Pintores Sampedranos and, since 2024, of the Asociación de Mujeres Artistas Hondureñas (AMAH).

Her practice explores the relationship between people, everyday life and the spaces they inhabit. Through painting and installation, and using materials such as canvas, paper, plastic, wood and cotton, she addresses experiences linked to labor, affective bonds and urban environments, paying attention to vulnerability, resilience and the ways in which the everyday builds memory and identity.

CURATORIAL TEXT

How do daily work practices weave themselves into today's society?

This exhibition grows out of an interest in making visible the people who sustain their everyday lives through informal work. Drawing on scenes inspired by street vendors and small entrepreneurs, the works explore dynamics of exchange, effort, and endurance present in the urban environment.

Each piece proposes a different story, joined by shared experiences of resilience, adaptation, and creativity. Through vibrant colors, mixed materials, and everyday objects, the exhibition seeks to build a close look at these practices that form an essential part of the life of the city.

«Intercambios cotidianos» does not seek to romanticize the hardships or the social conditions of its protagonists. The intention is to approach these realities with respect and dignity, recognizing the presence and the worth of those who take part each day in these human and economic exchanges.

Estación y camino (2026), Installation: plastic stools, newspaper; variable spatial arrangement, Variable dimensions

Estación y camino

2026 · Installation: plastic stools, newspaper; variable spatial arrangement · Variable dimensions

Estación y camino offers a reflection on the invisible dynamics of informal work and the repetitive routes that sustain much of urban life.

The installation uses colorful plastic stools, common objects within the Latin American street landscape, as symbols of the street vendor and of the temporary structures that occupy public space every day. Arranged in a row, the stools build a path that evokes the constant displacement of the workplace, where each stop represents a momentary pause within a routine marked by mobility, waiting, and adaptation.

Beneath this route, a path made of newspaper functions as a symbolic surface over which these everyday economies move. The printed news, a record of political, social, and economic conflicts, lies literally under the stools, suggesting how informal work continues to exist and resist amid the ceaseless flow of events that run through society.

The piece seeks to make visible labor practices that are often normalized or ignored, understanding public space as a place of exchange, survival, and collective memory.

Producción y memoria

2026 · Mixed media (series of miniature cotton candy) on canvas · Triptych, 80 × 80 cm each

This piece takes cotton candy as an everyday symbol tied to collective memory, informal trade, and the dynamics of exchange present in public space. Commonly associated with popular celebrations, parks, and fairs, the object appears here suspended between the affective and the economic.

Each cotton candy holds words and fragments that point to human bonds, labor, consumption, and belonging, turning an ephemeral product into a container of social meanings. The repetition of the pieces builds a kind of visual archive where the everyday is presented as a system of relationships sustained by small material and emotional exchanges.

The work invites us to observe how certain popular objects function not only as merchandise, but also as vehicles of memory, identity, and shared experience within urban life.
